

Dietary Frying
Oils

Saturday
3 May 2025

START: 10 AM Iran Local Time (GMT + 3:30)

The Topic of The Speech

- Diacylglycerols are natural components of various vegetable oils and are commonly available in the human diet
- DAG has been recently shown to have beneficial effects such as prevention and treatment of obesity compared to triacylglycerols
- The purpose of this lecture is to examine the latest status of the commercialization of this oil, the technological aspects of its production, and the possibility of transferring its production technology in the Country

Target Groups

- Professors, researchers, and related master and PhD students
- Industry owners and R&D managers and oil industry experts
- Knowledge-based companies and technology institutions

- The lecture link will be sent to registered emails 30 minutes before the beginning
- The course is free
- A certificate will be issued to participants

Professor Chin Ping TAN
Faculty of Food Science and Technology, UPM-Malaysia

Standard Research
Institute

